And this is how simply it works:

1. Simply fill the tray with water as usual until the water accumulates visibly
2. Allow the plants to draw water
3. Open the water drain of the big tray and drain off the retained water
→ the water tank remains filled nevertheless and it supplies the plants sustainably with water by means of capillary irrigation for up to a week, depending on the weather.

Your advantage:

- fewer plants lost
- lower personnel costs
- no watering at weekends and on public holidays
- can be placed variably because no connections, hoses etc. are required
